Frank Sferrazza Bicentennial the Good Guy Pageant Winner

For the past several weeks Frank Sferrazza of Fairmeadow Road has been a busy man. He has been selling tickets, to the Good Guy Banquet, which was planned for April 30 in the K of C Hall.

Frank who the Good Guy was to be. It was to be Rico Catalano, Sons of Italy official and sports enthusiast. It was a secret Frank shared with only a few persons, but he sold a lot of tickets.

On Friday Frank escorted Rico to the K of C Hall, for the surprise. They arrived a few minutes ahead of schedule, and were sent out of the anteroom on the pretext that they had to get cigarettes. Each left with the firm belief that the other fellow was to be surprised.

At 7:30 Frank escorted Rico into the hall. Escorted is not exactly the right word. Frank was behind Rico, and half pushed him into the hall, expecting a tremendous applause.

Then Rico turned around and shook the hand of his escort, and only then did Frank see Mrs. Sferrazza, and his mother, and his family, all waiting for him. The surprise was complete.

It was, of course, a lot of fun, and there was praise heaped on Frank. There was also a lot of roasting. Lil Woodside, who was the Good Guy some years ago, is good at roasting, and she did her part.

Selectman Frank Antonelli of Tewksbury was another who spoke. Mr. Antonelli is a close friend, of many years standing.

Perhaps the worst roasting came from Frank's boss, Bruce Garfield of Victor Coffee. He told of how highly Frank is appreciated by his fellow employees, and doubled the testimony of Rocco DePasquale on Frank's ability to give the Bad News first, and then the Good News.

Rocco's version of the Sferrazza technique:

The Good News: But it won't happen for ten days.

Among others who took part in the combined praise and roasting were Peter George, a neighbor, and Rico Catalano, of the Sons of Italy.

Tributes and presentations were made by Selectman George Boylen, from Wilmington; Rept. Fred F. Cain; Venerable Chris DiCecca for the Sons of Italy; Dick Duggan of the Wilmington Community Fund (of which Frank is the current president); Jack Cushing of the Wilmington Recreation Committee and Hugh Wiberg, of the Wilmington High School

Athletic Boosters

Former Good Guys who participated were: Rocco DePasquale, Ralph Ambrose, Lil Woodside, Ray McNamara, Marion Boylen and Dick Duggan. Hazel and Carl Backman were unable to, being in Florida.

Two songs, by Brother James of St. Thomas Church were a highlight. Brother James has a rich baritone voice. His first song was The Impossible Dream.

The toastmaster was Mike Cairn, former selectman, now a law student. Louise Sferrazza, Frank's mother, was at the head table, along with Mrs. Isabel Sferrazza, Donna Sferrazza Andrews and her husband Rick. Wayne Sferrazza, a UMass senior, Paul Sferrazza, and Sandra, a fourth grader. Robert Sferrazza could not take part in the surprise party for his father. He was a busy man at the Junior Variety Show, that same evening at the high school.

LOIS ANNE LOMBARDO: Ten-year-old fourth grader in the Shawsheen School was second place winner in the recent Miss Bicentennial Pageant conducted in Wellesley on April 10.

The pageant was open to all girls, four to 17. Lois competed in the nine to 12 age group, and was awarded a $250 US Savings Bond. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lombardo of 40 Grace Drive.

She was one of 15 final contestants. Her history talk was on the subject "What the Bicentennial means to me."

Plant sale Friday, May 21

The Conservation Department of the Wilmington Women's Club will hold a garden sale on May 21, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hambraken, 307 Salem St., Wilmington.

The proceeds of the sale will help defray the cost of the club's part in the Bicentennial project of the Beautification Committee.

The public is invited to attend, select plants and enjoy a cup of tea

McKelvey sues town and TM

A five count suit has been entered against Wilmington and its Town Manager by Kevin McKelvey of Border Ave. McKelvey, who is a lifelong resident of Wilmington is asking for $104,000 in damages from the town, and from Sterling Morris, both in his capacity as Town Manager and as an individual. The suit was entered last Friday, in the Middlesex Superior Court in Cambridge.

Mr. McKelvey was hired on January 16 to take part in the planning of the Silver Lake sewer extension, voted subsequently in the March Town Meeting. A story and picture appeared in the Town Crier on January 22.

He was to be stationed at the North Wilmington (Brown's Crossing) pumping station, where an office was being built. His work for the town lasted less than three weeks.

In the suit filed against the town and its Town Manager, McKelvey says he was hired as an environmentalist, at $17,500 a year, and that he was discharged on February 3 by the Assistant Town Manager, Peter Holzmeister, even though he offered, then and there, to continue his service to the town, and to comply with the terms of the agreement with the town. He was never paid for his services.

According to the complaint, Mr. Morris offered him the job on January 13 and the employment was to start on January 19. Later, he says, he was informed by the Town Counsel that the Town Manager did not have the authority to hire McKelvey, and that the Selectmen had refused to ratify the action, and therefore, he, McKelvey, was no longer to be hired by the town.

In the last count of the complaint McKelvey is asking for $50,000

Bloodmobile sets new record

A new record for collecting blood in Wilmington was established yesterday, by the Bloodmobile sponsored by the High School's senior class. A total of 236 pints of blood was collected.

Last year the senior class had a record of 211 pints, which was probably the record for that date.

Ninety-three persons donated blood in the first hour. Jack Lynch, student co-ordinator and teacher, was one of those who spent the entire day at the bloodmobile, in the gym.

John Brooks, Boston newspaperman, now retired, and chairman of the School Committee was another who spent the entire day at the bloodmobile. He was, some said, the "host."

Wilmington Women's Club Diamond Jubilee

PAST PRESIDENTS OF THE WILMINGTON WOMEN'S CLUB

The Wilmington Women's Club celebrated the 75th anniversary of its founding on April 15. Among the club's guests were Mrs. Eugene Faucher, President of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Domenic Alfano, Treasurer of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs and Club Historian of the Women's Italian Club of Boston; Mrs. William Littlewood, Director of the 8th District; Mrs. Ralph LaSalle, 8th District Director Nominee and Mrs. Louise Palci, President of the Women's Italian Club of Boston.

Mrs. Stanley Webber was in charge of the guest book and was recognized as being a 50-year member and newly elected honorary member. Many other past presidents also attended.

A delicious roast beef dinner was served with each guest receiving a silver basket filled with "diamond" candy and a most interesting booklet on the club's history prepared by Club Historian, Dr. Elene W. Farello. A special cake was then cut by Mrs. Malcolm Butler, immediate past president, and served by the hostesses of the day.

The cake, a masterpiece of Mrs. Laurent Boisvert, the former Barbara Blaisdell of Wilmington, represented the club through the years. It was set on a blue velvet cloth, the club's color. The four diamond shaped bases depicted the Art, Conservation, Education and International departments of the club. The next tier held a tiny silver basket, the favor of the club's 25th anniversary celebration, with Herkimer diamonds spilling from it. The Home Life and Public Affairs departments were represented on the third tier by cornstalk dolls and the final layer carried amongst its flowers a symbol denoting Wilmington's 75 years of service.

A short business meeting followed in which the club was recognized as having won two first place awards in the eighth district. The first was for their Community Improvement project, the theme of which was "The Harnden Tavern, Restoration and Maintenance," and the second award was for the Press Book, which covered the club's 75 year's news.

A very fitting ending to this birthday celebration was a most interesting talk on "Diamonds" given by Miss Carol Hersey of Reading, who showed slides of her recent trip to the diamond mines of South Africa.

Goldsworthy; Helen Hayward; Dorothy LaFionatis; George M. A. M. Webber, Edith Michelson, and Elsie Pickering.

For answers to these questions and more, don't tune in tomorrow because this is not produced by Norman Lear, it's produced by the Wilmington High School Drama Club and is called "Cactus Flower" and was written by Abe Burrows.

The soap operaish plot centers around four people, Toni, Stephanie, Julian and Igor, and their affairs, both public and private.

The main characters are Larry Burke as Julian Winston, Sue Fitzpatrick as Toni Simmons, Karen Wiberg as Stephanie and Joe Scaro as Igor. Included in the cast also are Gary Atamian, Gale Smith, Tracy Sullivan, Les Dangerfield and several other walk-ons.

The play, which will be put on May 14 and 15 at Wilmington High School auditorium was presented in once scene of the recent Student Faculty Talent Show and was a pleasant surprise.

From Fr. Page

damages, for reasons of the mental anguish and public scorn, the lost wages and the great damage to his reputation in the community, as a result of the public announcement which had appeared in the Town Crier at the time he was hired.

Kevin McKelvey is a graduate of Wilmington High School and of Merrimack College. At the time of his employment by the town he had been employed by Gregory and Weaver of Reading, and he terminated that employment, he says, to enter the town's employ.

He has told the Town Crier that he had subsequently talked with three of Wilmington's selectmen, Miceli, Boylen and Banda, about the actions taking place in January and February, and had tried to talk with the Town Manager, but was unable to. He had tried repeatedly, he said, for an appointment to a meeting of the selectmen, where the matter could be discussed, but had never succeeded in that.

McKelvey, while attending college, was a summer intern, in the Town Hall, for four years, with Town Managers Bouchard and Hennenberger. He is at present a student at Suffolk University, where he is a candidate for a Master's degree in Public Administration.

Aleppo Temple in Tewksbury parade

Aleppo Temple, of the Shriners, which is soon to locate in Wilmington if so voted by the members of that organization, next June, played a part in the Tewksbury Bicentennial parade, Sunday.

THE SUPER DUPER Cleaner Upperer. Notice the license plate.

ED BORENSTEIN: Captain of the Motor Patrol.

The Arab Patrol, with splendid horse and well mounted riders, was something to be seen. It is difficult to say who has the most fun - the Shriner operator or the spectators.

It is always followed by the Super Duper Sweeper Upperer, to quote one Shriner. The Cleaner Upperer has the license plate KLEEN, and follows the horses wherever they go. Sunday's parade also had the Motor Patrol, a dozen very small automobiles, under the command of Capt. Ed. Borenstein, a Wilmington businessman.

Tewksbury Arts Festival Saturday

The time has finally come for the long awaited Tewksbury Second Annual Arts Festival.

After months of careful planning by Jane Roche and the Maxed Advisory Council, the festival will take place on May 8, at Tewksbury High School.

The festival offers the town an opportunity to come together under one roof and display their work among other artists and craftsmen of all ages from this area.

Aside from the many participants displaying painting, photography, and drawing, the council has been fortunate to contract some others to display some of the more unusual arts.

Among these is Fred Montague, a town resident displaying dulcimers and demonstrating the making and the playing of one of the oldest, yet unfamiliar American stringed instruments.

Another currently popular art is sand painting. To demonstrate the Indian art will be Jacqueline Bowring. Miss Bowring will also conduct a workshop for those who are interested.

Other crafts will include hooked rugs, puppetry, weaving, silver jewelry, and ceramics.

For performing art fans...well, the council has provided for them too.

For those who missed the senior class play, there will be a short performance by the cast of "The Wizard of Oz."

Other areas of the performing arts are prepared by the Merrimack Valley Sweet Adelines, the Tewksbury High School Chorus directed by Walter Chapin, the high school jazz band ensemble directed by Joseph Musimeci and the Donna Miceli School of Dance.

Remember, the Arts Festival is this Saturday, May 8 from 1 to 8 p.m. and has been designed for people of all ages!!!

"Bad News Bears" a "must see" for Little League Baseball fans

by Rick Cooke

The Little League baseball season is upon us and the kids - and many parents are in training for a summer of exciting play on the smaller area diamonds.

The kids dress like and try to adopt the style of many of their major league favorites. Unfortunately too many of the parents continue to think that the youngsters are playing in the big leagues - where the pressure to succeed is great.

That pressure from the parents who play the role of "fan" in Little League baseball just shouldn't be there.

Last week the Crier received a letter from a reader who was upset at the way "fans" yelled at the Little Leaguers. That kind of nonsense doesn't belong in Little League ball and it's high time some of the "shouters" and "pressuring parents" ease up.

Many of them would (and should) receive a rude awakening if they took in a motion picture that is currently playing around the area.

"The Bad News Bears" stars Walter Matthau as the coach of a hapless Little League team. - "The Bears" the Bears are bad. Matthau, in an attempt to bolster his stumbling squad goes out and recruits a girl pitcher (Tatum O'Neal).

O'Neal gradually turns the team's fortunes around as the Bears get involved in a championship contest where the opposing coach (excellently portrayed by Vic Morrow) is an example of how menacingly ugly a Little League coach can be when a championship rules over all else - namely the kids having fun.

Director Michael Ritchie gives us a glimpse of the Bears having fun while they win under the direction of the boozy, easy going Matthau character. More importantly however is the look Ritchie provides of the "fans" as they cheer the players on. Some of them are ruder - some are downright vulgar. Much of what the Little Leaguers say is a bit tasteless too. It makes you wonder - where are they getting this "competitive urge" from? Do they really want to win that badly? Would one of the Bears make good on his statement - to an opponent - "I'll stick this bat where the sun never shines?" No, but his dad might if the umpire makes a bum call against his kid.

Make no mistake about it - this is a fun film. The kids are perfectly natural and Matthau and Morrow are perfect examples of what a coach should and shouldn't be.

But Ritchie gives us a look at what is wrong with our sports system in the United States. A girl pitcher is brought in and immediately she is looked at as an outsider who shouldn't be playing on the same field with boys her own age. Ritchie dispels that ridiculous belief. Tatum fits right in. The director centers much of the film's action in the final championship game. Here all that is wrong about sport is brought together. We can see it in the fans and in the opposing Coach Morrow. What made this film worthwhile is that the Bears are a group that had the ability to beat "the system." They have fun whether winning or losing. Even the Matthau character is a bit disturbing in that he goes out and recruits players to improve his team's chances of winning.

That final game should be seen by all Little League parents who get the urge to pressure their kids into success. Winning isn't everything. I know the Tewksbury Little League has a policy of playing everybody and that's the way it should be. But a kid shouldn't be put in for two innings just so the coach can say he played everybody.

This method only makes the kid feel like he is fulfilling an obligation. If a weak player only plays an inning when his team is way ahead or way behind, the manager isn't following the "play everybody" policy. He is merely giving it lip service.

The manager who does that should take in the "Bad News Bears." Little League parents should see the film - before the season gets too far along. Have fun kids.

Chelmsford in full command

Although the Billerica Indians appear to be capable of making a run at them, the Chelmsford Lions baseball team is still the class of this spring's Merrimack Valley Baseball Conference.

The Lions currently boast two of the top pitchers in the loop along with the number one rbi man.

Burly Lion John Baraldi, coming off an early season injury is the top "power pitcher" along with Billerica's Bob Sullivan. In limited action (15 inn) Baraldi is 2-0 with 16 strikeouts and an 0-46 earned run average.

The classy Lion pitcher Chuck Tewell is ranked third in the ratings right behind Baraldi. Tewell is 4-0 with 39 strikeouts to go along with just nine walks. This Chelmsford pair is the main reason why the Lions appear unlikely to falter as the season winds down. The hitting for CHS is taken ease of by one Steve Kattar who leads the conference with 17 rbi's.

Billerica was a darkhorse pre-season pick and Coach John Amaldi's club is making a solid run at the powerful Lions.

The Indians currently have the conference's number one ranked hitter and pitcher.

Mike Callery is hitting at a .538 clip while stocky Robert Sullivan is a tough-luck 3-2 while not having given up an earned run (0-00) at this writing.

Sullivan has struck out 37 opponents and he definitely is a power pitcher. He is backed by a kid who just might be the conference's smartest pitcher.

Sean Burke is 3-0 while having only 13 strikeouts. If Burke continues to back Sullivan and the Indian hitting picks up Chelmsford could be in for a rough fight.

Andover, an early season surprise is falling back to the pack and Lawrence and Austin are only fair teams incapable of challenging for the title.

Wilmington is a team capable of finishing strong, led by the fourth ranked hitter in the MVC - Jimmy Stewart (.421).

Tewksbury continues to stumble along with junior righthander Brent Goldstein being a consistent bright spot. Chelmsford's in command now, but a tough race is ahead for the Lions.

U Lowell sweeps doubleheader

Steve Comeau led the way as the University of Lowell staged a recent doubleheader sweep of Bridgewater State. The twinbill win gives the Chiefs a 14-7 record in the spring of 1976. Comeau pitched a three-hit 1-0 shutout in the opener of the doubleheader, striking out 10 while walking only three.

The lone run came in the second inning when Bridgewater botched a Rick Ries sacrifice bunt. The errant throw allowed Chief Gus Sharry to score.

In the second game U Lowell pounded its way to a 10-4 victory.

Ries and Paul Hamilton slashed two-run homer sin a five run second inning explosion. Hamilton hit his second home run of the game in the fourth inning to bury Bridgewater. Billerica's Timmy Newell pitched excellent relief ball in game two for the Chiefs.

John Henry Buck was Jonathan H. Buck

On April 29 the Town Crier published a story of the events leading to the construction of the Congregational Church steeple, back in 1876, and of the Buck family, and the men named Jonathan Buck in that family.

There was an immediate response from Mildred Buck of North Wilmington. Mildred is a granddaughter of John Henry, the last of the Buck family to live in the Benjamin Buck house.

Dear Larz:

Your Jonathan Buck story was intriguing. Grandfather Buck was always John Henry Buck to our family.

So I went upstairs and looked at his wedding certificate, when he and Catharine T. Warland were married in Woburn, back on Dec. 21, 1880. There, on that certificate, his name was Johnathan H. Buck. I never realized before that he had the name Johnathan.

Yours sincerely,

Mildred Buck

He was also Johnathan H. Buck when he was named the executor of his grand uncle's will, in 1885. It was some time after that date that he became John Henry.

Mildred Buck, incidently, is the lady who embarassed the Town Crier, about 10 years ago, when this paper was reporting on the military history of that family.

Men from the Buck family of Wilmington had served in every war in which Massachusetts Bay Colony, or the United States had taken part, up until World War II, and so the Town Crier commented.

There were an immediate number of letters from all over the country, saying in effect: "My cousin - My brother - etc. served in World War II."

The Town Crier story was of Wilmington Bucks. The letters were from other towns and cities, and perhaps it is pleasing to think that all over the country people named Buck still consider themselves Wilmington Bucks.

The embarrassing letter came from Mildred. She served in the US Air Force in World War II, and she was and is a Wilmington Buck. Mildred served three years.

The Town Crier was commenting on males of the Buck family, so perhaps the ladies can say the Town Crier is a chauvenistic male. Anyway, Mildred scored a point.

ARBOR DAY IN THE GLEN ROAD SCHOOL: Was just a little different this year.

The custodian, Jack Blaisdell, who now lives in Tewksbury, grew a lot of tomato plants, and each child took home a plant, for Arbor Day. There are 288 pupils, but Jack had a few plants left over.

The Emblem Club float

One of the proudest group of ladies, in the Tewksbury BiCentennial Parade, Sunday, were those of the Emblem Club.

With striking purple uniforms, white and gold vests, the club was lead by Marshal Grace McNamara. Behind her were the flag bearers, Marvis Johnson and Betty Roy, followed by Club President Judith Creamer. With them were the first vice president, Mary Reed, and Doris Cook, Kisbro D'Entremont, Pat Wiktorowicz and Mary Fortier, riding in a float.

The float was a Winnebago Camper, owned by Betty Baxter, and her husband Lou. Betty is the Americanism chairman. Lou helped to decorate, and then drove the float in the parade.

1976 is not only the BiCentennial of the United States. It is also the fiftieth anniversary of the Supreme Emblem Clubs, with membership now topping 40,000. Dominating all the activities is Americanism, patriotism and love of the flag, from which the Emblem Club takes its name.

Lucille Johnson, Supreme President, emphasizes in her messages the observance of all things patriotic and American. The Tewksbury - Wilmington Emblem Club is doing its most to follow the president's wishes. Betty Baxter, past president, is an excellent choice for the Americanism Committee, the club feels.

The members affirm that they are flag wavers, but not in words alone. The members of the Emblem Club are proud to be American - proud of their flag, and proud of their country.

The Lilacs on Federal Hill

Lilacs are beginning to bloom, in Wilmington, and another week will make a tremendous difference in more than just the visual enjoyment of those flowers.

Where Federal Street meets Middlesex Avenue is known as Federal Hill, probably because Colonel William Blanchard lived there for many years - from 1753 to his death in the early nineteenth century.

He was the Sergeant of the Wilmington Company of Minutemen, on Concord Day, and prior to the War of 1812 he was in command of the 4th Regiment of Middlesex Militia. His sons and grandsons played their part in the military history of Wilmington.

The Colonel's house was at the top of the hill, and in his later years the Wilmington Company of Militia used to drill in the field below, near where Mystic Avenue is today - between there and Federal Street. - This of course allowed the Colonel to watch them, from his kitchen window.

At the Federal Street side of the old house lot are lilac bushes. They are over 125 feet long, and over 20 feet wide. Possibly, but it is not certain, these are the largest in Middlesex County.

Also possibly the originals were planted by the Colonel who was once Wilmington's Minuteman Sergeant.

The Board of Appeals, last week granted permission to cut up the lot of land into two lots, one of which will have a driveway at the lower end of those lilac bushes. A house is to be built on the slope of the hill, behind what used to be the Gilligan home.

About 20 feet of the lilac bushes will disappear, as a consequence. This is the last year to enjoy those lilacs, in all their loveliness. Next year there won't be quite so many.

SCHOLA SHIPS? Keith Roueche of 45 Oakdale Road, a high school senior, has been studying Industrial Design ever since he started high school, along with Art. He has worked on many subjects, and Tuesday he was called down to the office of the principal, to accept an award.

But the discussion was soon changed to the possibility of getting a scholarship, to attend Syracuse University, in New York State. Keith has been accepted at that school, which has well known courses in industrial design and typography. He is shown talking over the subject with Pat Stanceau, Director of Art, and Principal George Eisenberg.

The award? Oh yes! It was a National Honor Award, for achievement in Photography.
